2. Dr. Patrick Druckenmiller, provided a presentation on background and events to-date regarding Bus 142. He stated that they are in the early planning stages for developing the Bus exhibition. The Bus is owned by the State (DNR), which has agreed for the bus to be housed at UAF and exhibited the Alaska Museum of the North. UAF was chosen because of the museum' strong connection to the site. The bus is housed in a wooded setting (north of the parking lot). As currently envisioned, the cleared area located in close proximity to the museum would have a fence enclosure, be easily ADA accessible path, and have security cameras and interpretive panels. A set of challenges (see below) were provided in the presentation and discussed by the MPC with none appearing to be particularly problematic at this time.

Challenges:

- Close to Troth Yeddha'
- Permafrost
- Accessibililty
- Security
- Parking
