Important selections from the UAF Student Code of Conduct:

“UAF requires students to conduct themselves honestly and responsibly, and to respect the rights of others. Conduct that unreasonably interferes with the learning environment or that violates the rights of others is prohibited.... Honesty is a primary responsibility of you and every other UAF student. The following are common guidelines regarding academic integrity:

- Students will not collaborate on any quizzes or exams that will contribute to their grade in a course, unless permission is granted by the instructor of the course. Only those materials permitted by the instructor may be used to assist in quizzes and examinations.

D	The lowest passing grade, indicates work of below average quality and performance.	Sloppy or lazy work. May address most elements of an assignment, but often reflects inattention to details resulting in poor edits, rough takes, out-of-sync audio, and the like. No sound track, credits, or fades typical.
F	Indicates failure to meet lowest standards.	Unacceptable. Work meets so few assignment elements, or meets them so poorly, it is unwatchable.

a. Grading Written and Production Assignments:

The ability to communicate ideas clearly is the cornerstone of a great director. To demonstrate good directing, you should plan to organize your ideas clearly, use correct grammar, spell words and names correctly, and demonstrate that you've thoroughly conceptualized and edited your work.

Effort put in to the pre-production will make up for problems during production and post.

All production assignments should be turned in with accompanying pre-production material; screenplays, shooting scripts, storyboards, production schedules, contact sheets, etc. It is the director's responsibility to provide this information along with their final cut of the film.

It's not "cheating" to ask for opinions and editing skills of others. Instead, the discussion is positive and can bring new insights to your work. The Writing Center (<http://www.alaska.edu/english/studentresources/writing/>) is available for students to develop their writing skills. Please visit or contact them for assistance, Gruening 801 or 474-5314. For assistance with video production, please consult me, or your production-team members.

I generally evaluate video quality based on the following characteristics:

"A" Production:

- Demonstrates a high level of insight about the story – a director's concept is clear.
- Exhibits creativity in both concept and approach to the story. Technique matches intention.
- Well organized production with complete supporting materials (screenplay, storyboard, production schedule, etc)

- Suggests a lack of understanding of the assignment.

"F" Production:

- Work is incomplete, unedited, or
- Unorganized for production
- Reveals the director's unawareness of the kind of production suitable for the audience, or
- Reveals a pattern of errors in mechanics on multiple levels
- Complete lack of understanding or disregard of the assignment.
